Dominion of Race

Rethinking Canada's International History

EDITED BY LAURA MADOKORO,
FRANCINE MCKENZIE &
DAVID MEREN

February 2018 332pp

6 b&w photos, 2 illus.

9780774834445 PB £27.99

UBC Press

In this book, leading scholars demonstrate the necessity of placing race at the centre of the narratives of Canadian international history. Destabilizing conventional understandings of Canada in the world, they expose how race-thinking has informed priorities and policies, positioned Canada in the international community, and contributed to a global order rooted in racial beliefs. By demonstrating that race is a fundamental component of Canada and its international history, this book calls for reengagement with the histories of those marginalized in, or excluded from, the historical record.

Must We Defend Nazis?

Why the First Amendment Should Not Protect Hate Speech and White Supremacy

JEAN STEFANCIC &
RICHARD DELGADO

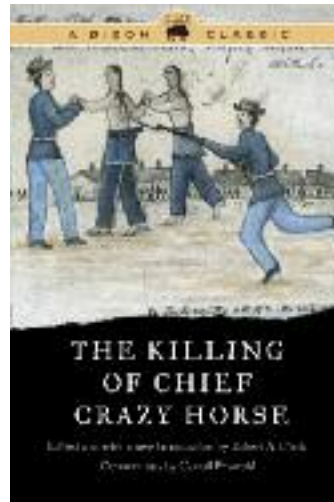

January 2018 176pp

9781479857838 PB £11.99

9781479887712 HB £71.00

New York University Press

Updated to consider the white supremacy demonstrations and counter-protests in Charlottesville and debates about hate speech on campus and on the internet, the book offers a concise argument against total, unchecked freedom of speech. Delgado and Stefancic instead call for a system of free speech that takes into account the harms that hate speech can inflict upon disempowered, marginalized people. They examine the prevailing arguments against regulating speech, and show that they all have answers. They also show how limiting free speech would work in a legal framework and offer suggestions for activist lawyers and judges.

The Killing of Chief Crazy Horse, Bison Classic Edition

ROBERT A. CLARK

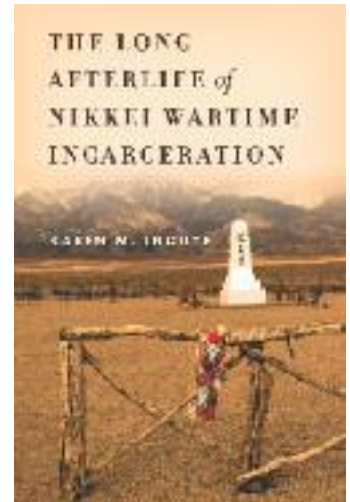

August 2018 144pp

12 photos, index

9781496200570 PB £15.99

University of Nebraska Press

A story of envy, greed, and treachery. In the year after the Battle of the Little Big Horn, the great Oglala Sioux chief Crazy Horse and his half-starved followers finally surrendered to the U.S. Army near Camp Robinson, Nebraska. Chiefs who had already surrendered resented the favors he received in doing so. When the army asked for his help rounding up the Nez Perces, Crazy Horse's reply was allegedly mistranslated by Frank Grouard, a scout for General George Crook. By August rumors had spread that Crazy Horse was planning another uprising. Tension continued to mount, and Crazy Horse was arrested at Fort Robinson on September 5th. Here the killing of Crazy Horse is viewed from three widely differing perspectives—that of Chief He Dog, that of William Garnett, and that of Valentine McGillycuddy.

The Long Afterlife of Nikkei Wartime Incarceration

KAREN M. INOUE

March 2018 256pp

9781503606593 PB £19.99

Asian America

Stanford University Press

The Long Afterlife of Nikkei Wartime Incarceration reexamines the history of imprisonment of U.S. and Canadian citizens of Japanese descent during World War II. Karen M. Inouye explores how historical events can linger in individual and collective memory and then crystallize in powerful moments of political engagement. Drawing on interviews and untapped archival materials—regarding politicians Norman Mineta and Warren Furutani, sociologist Tamotsu Shibutani, and Canadian activists Art Miki and Mary Kitagawa, among others—Inouye considers the experiences of former wartime prisoners and their on-going involvement in large-scale educational and legislative efforts.

The Politics of Religious Controversy in the Early United States

ERIC R. SCHLERETH April 2018 304pp 10 illus. 9780812224153 NIP £19.99

Early American Studies University of Pennsylvania Press Places religious conflict at the center of early American political culture. From the 1770s onwards, Americans began to define the boundary of acceptable religious expression in reference to infidelity. Schlereth explains how Americans negotiated these controversies in an age of emerging religious liberty.

Anchor Babies and the Challenge of Birthright Citizenship

LEO R. CHAVEZ October 2017 120pp 9781503605091 PB £9.99

Stanford University Press "Anchor baby" is a pejorative term for a child born in the U.S. to a foreign national mother who is not lawfully admitted for permanent residence. Chavez considers how the term is used as a political dog whistle, how changes in the definition of citizenship have affected the children of immigrants and more.
